I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. In its introductory remark, the delegation expressed view that the outcome of the universal periodic review provided national authorities with important guidance on how to enhance the human rights protection, which had been one of the main strengths of the review process.
6. The delegation made a brief presentation of the national report, with a focus on how the recommendations from the first UPR cycle had been addressed as well as on main developments that had taken place in the last four years. As a follow-up to the first UPR cycle, all recommendations were subject to a thorough consideration by the relevant national authorities. A number of legislative and practical measures were adopted to implement recommendations in practice during the reporting period.
7. While acknowledging remaining challenges in some areas, the delegation expressed the commitment of the Government to continue its efforts to achieve further progress in the institutional and legal framework related to human rights. Furthermore, the delegation reassured the Government's commitment to continue the dialogue with the civil society including by involving representatives of the civil society in discussions on policies and programmes relating to human rights.
8. The delegation reported that civil society was involved in the preparation process of the national report through the Government Council for Human Rights, National Minorities and Gender Equality. The draft national report was presented to members of the Government Council and was discussed by the Council in one of its session. In addition, civil society representatives and the public were given an opportunity to provide their comments on the consolidated version of the national report during the consultation process.

9. The delegation also presented the main developments that had taken place since the first UPR cycle. Some positive changes had been made in the institutional framework related to human rights. For example, the Ministry of Foreign and European Affairs undertook more responsible role in respect to human rights policies by becoming a coordinator of human rights policies and by chairing the Government Council for Human Rights, National Minorities and Gender Equality, which were represented a forum for regular discussions among Government representatives, civil society and human rights experts. The Ministry of Foreign and European Affairs with its new coordinating role had served to ensure effective division of tasks and responsibilities among the line ministries in the field of human rights and efficient follow-up to issues discussed.

10. During the reporting period important legislative amendments to the Anti-discrimination Law were adopted with a view to further strengthening protection against discrimination, including widening the scope of the indirect discrimination. By establishing the Committee for the Rights of LGBTI persons in October 2012, the Government responded to the need to ensure better awareness about discrimination based on sexual orientation or gender identity.

11. As a multi-ethnic country Slovakia had taken efforts to create a suitable environment for the preservation and protection of the national minorities. In this respect, the Government had been actively engaged in dialogue with international human rights monitoring bodies, in particular those of the Council of Europe, and benefited from the invaluable expertise of those bodies when adopting and implementing national policies regarding the rights of national minorities. Dialogue with the High Commissioner for the National Minorities of OSCE and the Council of Europe Venice Commission on particular thematic issues served as a positive example in this regard. The Government Plenipotentiary for National Minorities was established in 2012 to inter alia ensure the adequate follow-up to recommendations made by regional human rights mechanisms on national minorities.

12. Having in mind the absence of a comprehensive concept paper on human rights the Government had initiated the drafting of the National Strategy for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights. In the preparatory stage, a broad discussion on further improvements in the human rights situation was initiated, which involved various government and non-governmental actors. The Government had been planning to complete the drafting of the Strategy by June 2014.

13. During the reporting period Slovakia had ratified CRPD and its Optional Protocol, and the Optional Protocol to ICESCR. As regards to the question on ratification of CPED, the delegation stated that all necessary legislative amendments were adopted and the national ratification procedure had been underway. Slovakia also ratified Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a Communications Procedure in December 2013.

14. The delegation stated that Slovakia had started the process of ratification of the Convention on the Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation of the Council of Europe and Sexual Abuse. The relevant legal amendments had been initiated for the ratification of the Kampala amendments which remained a priority and the Government expected to complete the ratification of the amendments in 2014.

15. The delegation stated that the situation on the rights of Roma required further efforts to achieve satisfactory results from human rights, social and economic perspective. In general, improving the situation of the Roma minority had been a long-term priority for the Government. The Strategy for Roma Integration up to 2020, which was adopted in 2012, represented the primary comprehensive policy paper for the social integration of Roma and provided a basis for adopting the policies in four main areas of integration: health, employment, housing and education.

16. As noted by the delegation, the Government acknowledged the need for a comprehensive approach to the process of integration of the Roma. Despite slow progress in this field, there had been several positive examples, in particular with regard to housing, health and employment.

17. The delegation stated that a number of challenging tasks remained to be completed. The establishment of a national human rights institution in line with the Paris Principles had been among the most pressing objectives. Necessary legislative steps were expected to be taken in the near future. And finally, a procedure to establish a national independent institution for the rights of the child was on its way and the first legislative draft was expected in the first half of 2014.
